PALACE

A photograph of the interior of the J.R. Palace, a rustic wooden building with a high, vaulted ceiling made of woven palm leaves and exposed wooden beams. The walls are also made of wood. Two large windows with white curtains are on the left, looking out onto a garden. In the foreground, two beds with brown headboards and white ruffled skirts are visible. A small table with a basket of fruit sits between the beds. The floor is made of wooden planks.

J.R. PALACE

J.R. Palace, built in a unique islander-style of architecture, is located on seven acres on the famous Charweng beach front. Its attractively designed delightful restaurant overlooks a white sandy beach and caters to the needs of investors from near and far. Nearby this garden setting is a cluster of fishermen's houses. Enjoy the relaxing beach-side pool, water sports of your choice, and a superb restaurant. The tranquility and security of this natural setting will add immensely to your enjoyment.

SAMUI

Samui is one of Thailand's most talked about islands. Situated in southern Thailand, it is easily accessible from Bangkok by air, train and bus, or it can be easily reached by rental car. It has been blessed with an abundance of beauty and charm, both in its surroundings and in the warmth of the local Thai inhabitants. It is a gem that has been partially polished with a glimmer of sophistication, yet its innocent beauty is untouched.
